About the Taoist Calendar

Taoist Calendar, also known as the Chinese Calendar (阴历 or 农历), is more than four thousand years old. Modern astronomical principles, such as sun circle (Days), moon cycle (Month), Earth cycle (Year) and Jupiter (the largest planet in the solar system) cycle (Zodiac) are foundations of the calendar. The calendar is accurate about moon phase. There are 12 months in a year, the 15th days of months in the Taoist calendar match the days of full moon. Females often find it is easier to trace menstruation cycle with the Taoist Calendar. You can find more information about Taoist science on our website:
